JOHNSON C. SMITH UNIVERSITY

Yearbook Allocations Fall Way Short

"If important — How important.. . . . Is a Yearbook Production?"

By Tim Jones

The University has allotted $13,000, this year for the 1978-79 yearbook, The Bull, approximately $4,000 less than the estimated cost of the annual.

According to Anothy Hayes, the yearbook editor, the funds supplied by the school may go up to $14,000, depending on student enrollment, which has not yet been totalled. Each student pays ten dollars in tuition fees for the yearbook.

The Student Government (SGA), in its last meeting, proposed an allocation of $1,000 to be added to the yearbook funds. With the probable additions to the budget, Hayes said approximately $2,000 will still be needed to meet the $16,880 figure, given to him by the publishing company. This balance will be obtained by profits from advertisements and fund-raising projects that the yearbook staff will sponsor, such as socials and dances. The staff will also ask for donations from community organizations and individuals, Hayes said.

Student ads will be available at one half the price of business ads. Hayes explained that student ads, under the topic, "Express Yourself", can be purchased by groups or individuals who want a space reserved in the yearbook for their pictures. Group pictures may have no more than ten people. The price for student ads is fifty dollars per page. Hayes said he is optimistic about this year's yearbook production, in spite of the monetary problems. He expects to have a basic book with about sixteen color pages. There will be no special effects, tints or elaborate cover. "Still I expect the yearbook to be better than last year's", Hayes commented. "This just means that everyone will have to work harder."

Last year, the total yearbook cost was $20,000; $7,000 more than initial $13,000 appropriation. Eventually, the university was able to provide more funds for publication of the book. There is no guarantee that the university will provide additional funds this year, and Hayes urges the student body to take an active part in eliminating this financial crisis. "The Bull is used to recruit students to Smith," he stated. "This should bring concern from the university as well as the student body." Hayes said he regards the yearbook situation as a test of student awareness and concern versus student apathy.

Anthony Hayes, 78-79 Yearbook editor

The 1979 "Bull Staff" was the recipient of several difficulties, concerning the "79 Production." In spite of a cut-back in our allotted budget for the production, we continued to produce the "Bull". This obstacle placed a heavy burden on our creativity. A lot of things that we wanted to present through this medium were left behind, due to a lack of funds. However, what we have prepared for you is a pictorial of life at Johnson C. Smith University 1978-79. You are the main characters. The setting is in Charlotte, N.C. We hope you enjoy your story.

Dedication To

Once a story's told
It can't help but grow old
But memories are stored
If ever were they dear

We have tried to make you happy
To relieve all signs of worry
To bring a smile upon your face
As we step forth into tomorrow

Filled with Administration, Faculty Members, the Student Body, and . . .
A Good Big Expression Of Happiness
We present "The Ball" without delay
A potpourri of fashions

We're so glad to tell our story
Designed especially for you
We're so glad to tell our story
Of the Mighty Gold And Black

STEPPING INTO TOMORROW

Every University leaves a lasting impression on the students who call it "home" for four years. Academically, Emotionally, Professionally, and Personally, the school a person goes to has a definite influence on his or her life. Each University has a personality of its own. That personality is reflected in the personalities of its students, faculty, administrators, alumni, and trustees.

For the "Class of 79", Johnson C. Smith University has been a positive contributor in helping them become the proud men and women that they are today. With the learnings that they have received, they stand prepared today, for that glorious "step into tomorrow"! Their main objective is to strive forward to radiate the universal awareness, characteristic of our University. The sky is indeed the limit!

"Johnson C. Smith our own . . ", for we are the true reflections of this beautiful University. The "Bull" has lived through fifty years of recording memories (except for a break between 1936 and 1946). "Stepping Into Tomorrow" marks the beginning of a new era. With this new beginning, we see a massive flow of positive attitudes, creating progressive ideas. We see the mental collaboration between students, faculty members, and administrators, that constitute a University.

So step with us, as we get into the beautiful unfoldment of the 1978-79 school year, at Johnson C. Smith University. Perhaps we can relate to the linguistics of Mr. George Clinton (recording artist), in saying:

* "To each his or her reach ... *
and if we don't cop its not ours to have ... but we'll be reaching for you ...

* because WE LOVE YOU — J.C."*

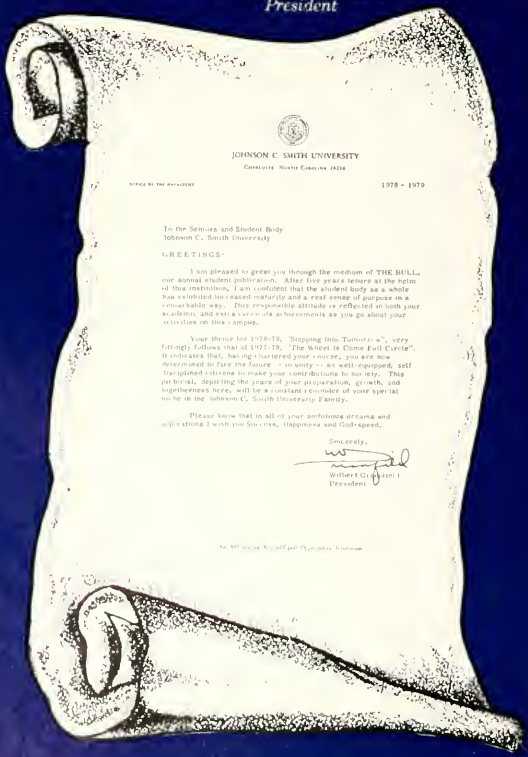
FACULTY AND STAFF

The Makings Of Our President

Dr. Wilbert Greenfield
President



JOHNSON C. SMITH UNIVERSITY
CHARLOTTE, NORTH CAROLINA 28216

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

1978 - 1979

To the Seniors and Student Body
Johnson C. Smith University

GREETINGS:

I am pleased to greet you through the medium of THE BULL, our annual student publication. After five years tenure at the helm of this institution, I am confident that the student body as a whole has exhibited increased maturity and a real sense of purpose in a remarkable way. This responsible attitude is reflected in both your academic and extracurricular achievements as you go about your activities on this campus.

Your theme for 1978-79, "Stepping Into Tomorrow", very fittingly follows that of 1977-78, "The Wheel Is Come Full Circle". It indicates that, having charted your course, you are now determined to face the future -- in unity -- as well-equipped, self disciplined citizens to make your contributions to society. This pictorial, depicting the years of your preparation, growth, and togetherness here, will be a constant reminder of your special niche in the Johnson C. Smith University Family.

Please know that in all of your ambitious dreams and aspirations I wish you success, happiness and God-speed.

Sincerely,

Wilbert Greenfield
President

An Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Institution

Dr. Matthew J. Whitehead
Chairman of the Board

The Board of Trustees of Johnson C. Smith University was constitutionalized and chartered prior to the founding of our University, on March 17, 1866. The Board of Trustees has always been considered an organization which provides leadership, guidance and a unique air of pride and togetherness to the atmosphere of our institution. These men and women that have agreed to serve in the complex capacity as a member of the Board of Trustees have also agreed to serve us in our individual roles of life as we go "stepping into tomorrow".

A Unique Seed

As the years have started toward the future to come, we must implement the changes that are needed. The Sophomore Class at Johnson C. Smith University has planted a seed. Whether the seed will produce depends totally on the individuals, but if God gives us Grace to cultivate this seed and soil it will produce a crop that has never been produced here at Smith. Planting a rightful seed is a challenge to all mankind. Go out and search, for you may find the proper place, season and seed. Plant it carefully and watch it as it may GROW for eternity.

THE CHARLOTTE NEWS Wednesday, Feb 14, 1979 ★★

'Like a family'

Smith is big enough for talented Bob Moore

Bob Moore's office in the basement of Johnson C Smith's Brayboy Gymnasium is a tiny cubicle

The door is covered with clippings of newspaper and magazine stories about black athletes who have fouled up their lives, blown opportunities

The heating in the office is capricious, sometimes suffocating, sometimes absent

On the walls are a few photographs of some of the basketball teams Moore has coached and of his three sons Coaching accessories are mounded on a desk and file cabinet

And on the floor sits a busted mousetrap

This is a long way from the spacious, carpeted, paneled coaching offices of Reynolds Coliseum or Pauley Pavilion or any of the other palaces of big-time basketball

Moore wants to keep it that way. Oh, he wouldn't mind an office like Dean Smith's But he isn't interested in coaching at that level

The first-year coach of the Johnson C Smith Golden Bulls, who has strewn spectacular success all along the circuitous route of his career, says, "I've never had aspirations to get into major college coaching

"I want to take kids that the other schools don't want and make doctors or lawyers or some other kind of successes out of them

"I think that's the mission of black colleges — take what's left

"When our kids finish college, they're better prepared for life because they've gone through more and done without

"Schools like North Carolina can help some of our kids but it's more advantageous for some others to go to a school like Smith or Virginia Union (where he coached before coming here)"

'79 BULLS

Moore, 6-foot-4, 210 pounds, 37 years old, could be in a position to land assistant coaching jobs at many big schools He was named Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association Coach of the Year Monday after taking one returning starter from a 10-18 team, mixed in some freshmen and sophomores, losing his first three games and four of his first five, then turning out an 11-12 team and a CIAA title contender

Before this season, Moore has been Coach of the Year almost every year he's been in the business, with sparkling high school records and some ultra-successful teams at Virginia Union

But Moore says, "If I were at North Carolina, I'd be the coach It's a job Here, I'm part of the family I coach and teach math classes and I'm part of the total school.

"I enjoy just what we're doing now It's more like a family than a job"

Moore is as eloquently simple and straightforward as the message of that mousetrap there on the floor.

When he talks about his team's style of play, which is fast-paced, flash and not yet defense-oriented, he says, "We could hold the score down like they do in the ACC if we wanted to pass the ball eight times but in this league, the fans like to see action, so we take more shots.

"I've had players who could run the four corners and could've frozen the ball forever but the fans hated it. We could play a slower, lower-scoring brand of ball in the CIAA but we wouldn't have anybody come to see us"

When he speaks of his nature as a coach, he says, "I don't curse I don't yell and fuss and get all emotional

"But if we play badly, I might come back to the gym and hold a practice from midnight to three in the morning If that's being tough, then I'm tough"

On recruiting, Moore says, "I sit right behind this desk and do my recruiting I really went out and recruited only one player on this team, Blue Oliver

"I stay in touch by phone and mail with my former players and assistant coaches and they give me information on prospects and send players to me

"One of my former players now living in Texas sent me Phil Flores I never saw Phil until he walked into the dormitory here Now, he's one of the best guards in the conference

"That's typical of how I get a lot of players

"My father (himself a former coach) visited Eldorado, Ark., and told me about seeing the best player in Arkansas, a guard named Isaac Greer who set a state record with 54 points in one game

"I said, 'Aw, he'll go to Arkansas!' He didn't He went to Grambling But he didn't like it and went home

"Now, he's here, sitting out a year before he's eligible

"So that's my recruiting. A black college needs to get a coach with a lot of contacts if it's going to recruit well

"I figure every one I graduate in his lifetime will send me at least two ballplayers"

As Moore said, It's like a family.

Says Smith coach Bob Moore, "When our kids finish college, they're better prepared for life . . ." (News photo/Elmer Horton)

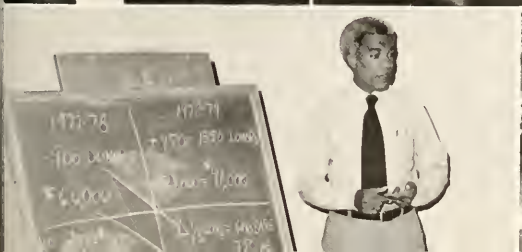
HOMECOMING 1978



MOCK FUNERAL

PEPPING AT THE PEP RALLY

Friday, the day before the game, there was the distinct feeling of victory in the air. We all sensed it, we all knew it, so what better way to show it than by means of a "PEP RALLY." True, we had tasted the agony of defeat, but not this time for with our cows we finally knew the full strength of the Mighty GOLDEN BULLS!!

Editor's Note:

I extend my deepest apologies for not being able to print any pictures of the homecoming game. Due to circumstances beyond my control, we were not able to receive any. I, however, congratulate the team for its victory.

JCSU Victorious

By Joe Davis

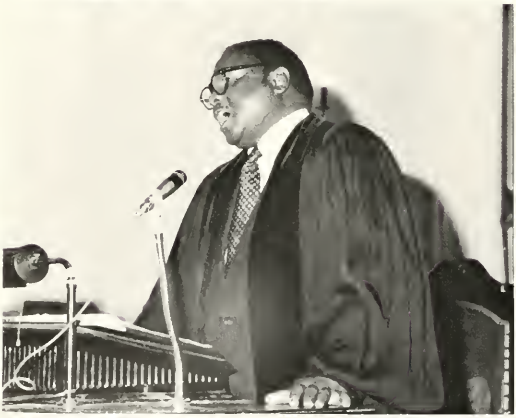
The J.C.S.U. Golden Bulls celebrated thier first victory of the year, after coming up short on repeated occasions, stomped Shaw University 29-20 in front of friends and supporters who came to back the team in their Homecoming Festivities.

The Offensive unit, criticized for not being able to put points on the scoreboard, had its biggest day as they managed a season high 29 points.

Cal Gil having the best game of his career tallied on three occasions. Twice on 1 yard sneaks and a 45 yard gallop to help the Bulls run away with the game

GIL SCOTT HERON AND DOC

Sunday Services



Sunday after homecoming is always a special occasion. Old friends and former Smithites gather to rap up a week of homecoming festivities. This year was no exception, the crowd was larger than usual and left their Alma Mater inspired by Rev. Thomas McPhatter's message.

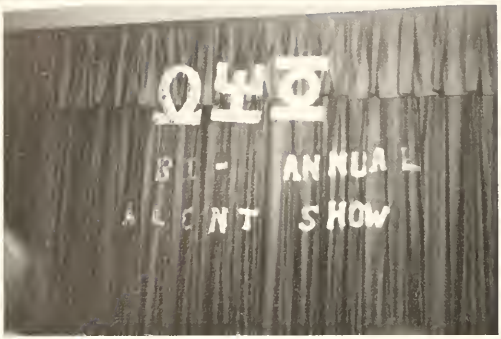
OMEGA TALENT SHOW



JUMP SESSION

As students we are exposed to a constant stream of "superiors" who lecture, illustrate and demonstrate principles, encourage, scold and determine in large part the direction of our lives in these four years and, in reality, for the rest of our careers. These members of the faculty and administration are individuals with personalities as diverse as any other large population but, unfortunately, because of our position as students, we are exposed to them only in their limited roles.

Even though we didn't get 100% participation from all of the administration and faculty, for the ones who knew about it and participated we say thank-you very much, and for the ones who knew about it and didn't participate we say————?

We already know our professors are distinguished and lofty we now know they are also human. The feet leaves the ground and, as if by some primordial reflex, the years of learned cortical supervision are whisked away leaving a fleeting glance at long forgotten pristine childlike excitement.

JUMPOLOGY: Is a term to describe the analysis of a person's personality by the way they jump. While the jump cannot be totally revealing, it can indicate some surprising tendencies.

We make no attempt herein to lead the reader with elaborate analyses or mystical revelations, for it is the very nature of a picture to obviate a thousand words.

We have provided anecdotes and we have even suggested some personality traits. However the final analysis is left up to you.

[illegible] Mr. Jackson leaves the room and then returns with joy!

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] leap for joy also!

Mr. Nixon takes a jump of happiness, it must have been pay day.

Wonder what Mr. Dowdy is jumping for?

(Above) — "Come now and then when we feel a need to 'pause for the cause', we experiment with the 'laws of gravity'. Free your frustrations, take a leap. I dare you!"

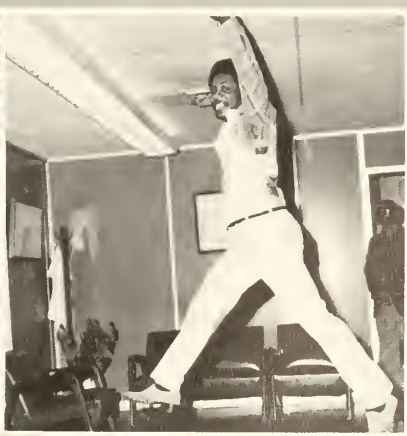
(Left) — "Now just calm down and take it easy . . . I know it's not the best job in the world, but if you'll come down from the ceiling, we'll talk about it."

Mr. Hines and Mr. Elliott both must have seen the movie "Superman" and believed that man could fly. As we see either one of them could have played the part. Fly on, fellow man.

Mr. Arias runs around campus for his daily exercise.

Miss Jones teaches her English classes Jumping Jacks.

Now that Dr. Rose-Anderson holds the world in the palm of His HANDS things should get done around HERE



. . . I could be mistaken, but I think Reverend Phinisee just received some alarming news . . .

. . . while Reverend Phinisee calmly does the six one-two step.

. . . sometimes, when the white girls swing, you get the urge TO GET AWAY.

These men are practicing the most up-to-date dance steps. (upper left) Dr. Collins has just received his monthly issue of Dance Unlimited. And is taking a real LEAP, You see leaps are in this year.
(upper right) Meanwhile Dr. Gaston has just heard about the unofficial dance going on in the gym, and is what . . . BUSTING LOOSE!
(bottom) The Faculty Office Building has many purposes. These gentlemen are doing the J. C. Hustle. My golly I think they've GOT IT.

"My first year as a member of the "Bull Staff" and what a year it was! Problems, problems, and more problems! Not enough money, no heat, no curtains, no NOTHING!! Deadlines to meet, unexpected surprises of every sort. A real headache! But, the funny thing about it all is that next year, I'll be right back here, still working sweating, trying and crying."

"I'm a Freshman, from Goldsboro, N.C., majoring in Sociology. I have enjoyed working on the yearbook staff. I met a lot of new people and learned a lot from them. To me the yearbook staff is one big happy family. We need your support for more money to publish a better book. People are quick to say what should be in color. Lend us your support to make it possible."

Kim Crisp

Cherette Sayles

"I'm a Freshman, from Salisbury, N.C., majoring in Sociology. I would like to stress a strong emphasis on unity. I believe that we will be able to achieve great goals as a family. But, if for some reason, we manage to fall aprt, it will be because we lack unity."

Patricia Peek

"Being Black, I have learned to cope with things Black people must go through. Being a Smithite, I have learned to accept only those things I cannot change, but there is one thing I can say I have enjoyed, and that is being Business Manager for the 79 Bull. Even though all my proposals were turned down by the administration, I still tried to do my job. I refused to quit because I was turned down once. We as Smithites must learn to carry on, no matter what. Things are going to change. Our time is coming soon."

'79 BULL STAFF

"I'm a Sophomore, from Charleston, S.C., majoring in Communications and Business. I was born under the zodiac sign of Taurus. We as students must become more aware of things going on in today's society, as well as on campus. We must become active participants in the betterment of our school and community. I Dare You — to become a more active person than you are now!"

Sarah-Elaine Jenkins

"Being here at Smith has taught me a lot about life. I strongly feel that Smith is a serious University to learn to deal with societies problems. You learn to be in control of yourself and your actions."

Love ya,
DeMarkus Calhoun (D.C.)

"Being President of the Pan-Hellenic Council, for the year 1978-79, has been a rewarding experience. (in a way . . .) I learned that the administration was not for the betterment of the students. This past semester, the administration "pulled the wool" over the Greek's eyes. Being Greek and being a member of the Pan-Hellenic Council, you can change this unfortunate mishap. You can do this by uniting as one, and working for the same goal. My last remarks is that next year — become active with the council. If this is done, I assure you that your voices will be heard and the situations will change."

"Grease for Peace," and

Kenny "Smiley" Myers

"I'm a Junior, from Greenville, S.C., majoring in Early Childhood Education. I have thoroughly enjoyed working with the yearbook staff, as your Organizations Editor for the "79 Bull". During these past few months, with the greatly appreciated help of members of the yearbook staff, I have gained much experience, knowledge, and sincere dedication for the yearbook. I truly hope you will enjoy the "79 Bull", as much as I enjoyed working with it.

Brenda D. Wilson

Being a student at Smith, I feel I owe the University something that only I as an individual can give. Growing up in one of the three all Black communities in the U.S., and going to a Black University, I feel that we, as Blacks, should work together to achieve higher goals in life. The things that our forefather did to give us an opportunity in life should be repaid by our taking advantage of every open door, and learning to strive forward. (Even when doors are shut in your face)

There is an abundance of qualities which can be associated with this departing class, and I'm sure that the mentor of all the critiques which will be given to this class will unquestionably become speechless.

As we think back to our matriculation of old J.C.S.U., we think about the problems, experiences, decisions, and moods, all of which the Class of 1979 played a vital role in shaping. The Class of 1979 will undoubtedly stand among the top in participation shown, support given, and the continued spirit of professional ethics to which we've brought to this institution.

As graduates, we've proven that we can stand the test of time, attain the knowledge offered and capture the spirit of determinism necessary in determining our destiny and fortunes. We are proud and thankful for our parents and those individuals who foresaw a day when we could stand amont the reigns of intellect.

My fellow classmates, as we depart these boundaries of Johnson C. Smith University, where knowledge and skill is attained; where experiences and friendships are eternally bound; where purpose, courage, genuineness, usefulness, work, thought, and faith — established a building as in the days of Solomon, so that we may forever be strong and true to the aims of God. With this type of spirit in our hearts, a diploma in our hands, and a right step forward — our future labors and aspirations are almost assured.

Finally, these words of thought:

It may seem as though we didn't accomplish a great deal or contribute significantly to some purpose or cause, but what we did, we did our best, and may God forever bless.

Senior Class President

After six months of photographing, lay-outs, deadlines, and requisitioning, we bring this edition of the "Bull" to an end. I thank "the family" for granting me the opportunity to become Editor-in-Chief of the "79 Production."

One noteworthy change was the elimination of excessive copy. The dialogues can be remembered. A frozen or captured moment is a priceless item. The "Bull" is a collection of moments, that have been captured at Johnson C. Smith Univ. within a particular year. Through this medium, the wondermeat, the snowfights, the work-study lines, blockology, canteenology, and of course, sleepology — can all be remembered.

A yearbook is not put together by one man with one mind. It is completed with the collaboration of a group of minds working toward the same cause. In light of this, I give a very special thanks to the "79 Bull Staff." Without their unending assistance, this production would not have been possible. "Rick" is to be commended for his timely advice. I thank God for helping me to hold on.

Mistakes, as always, will be discovered as you scan these pages. If your name has been mispelled, misplaced, misused, or unintentionally abused, we apologize. We have tried to create a publication that will be informative as well as entertaining. We have structured this production on a level that every student can understand and enjoy.

With the closing of this production, in the tradition of Ossie Davis and Ruby Dee, I speak of knowledge and say: "Take some elsewhere — and let it come back to you." I thank you, and may God bless you.
